Project: Echoes of Time – A History Website

What You're Building

Create a website with 4 connected pages.
Select an historical event and create a page for each topic: how it started, which people were involved, what physical artifacts were left from this time, and how people remember this event.

You decide the topic (real or fictional).
The site should feel like a small online museum or history story.

Pages You Need

You must have 4 separate HTML files.
Each one should be about one part of the story. For example:

- `origins.html` – how it began
- `figures.html` – who was involved
- `artifacts.html` – what objects were left
- `legacy.html` – what still remains or is important today

You can name the files anything you want — but all should connect and tell a full story.

Links and Navigation

Every page must:

- Link to the other 3 pages
- Have a clear menu at the top or side using `<nav>`
- Use internal links (`#something`) for jumping inside the same page

What to Show

Use these elements in your pages:

- At least 2 types of media, like:
    - Pictures (`<img>`)
    - Videos (`<video>`)
    - Audio (`<audio>`)
    - Map (`<iframe>`)
- A gallery of pictures or objects
- A WIKIPEIDA link that opens a the site in a different tab(`<a href="..." target="_blank"`)
  https://developer.mozilla.org/en-US/docs/Web/API/HTMLAnchorElement/target
- A small quote from a person, book, or story using `<blockquote>`

  `blockquote`

What to Include

Each page must:

- Have a title (`<h1>`) and other headings (`<h2>`, `<h3>`)
- Have at least 300 words of your own text
- Use semantic tags like `<section>`, `<article>`, `<aside>`, `<figure>`, `<footer>`, etc.
- Describe your images using `<figcaption>`

  `figcaption`

- Show 3 or more items that a visitor can explore (using `<details>` or anchor links)

Bonus Ideas (Optional)

- Show a timeline or prices using a `<table>`
- Add a list of terms using `<dl>`, `<dt>`, `<dd>`
- Use language tags (``) for short texts in other languages
